Lower Domestic Electric Rate Expected Here

It has been rumored that a new domestic electric rate may soon go into force in Addison, again lowering the price per killowatt for current. There have been at least three material cuts in electricity rates during recent years which have brought the liberal use of current well within the reach of every householder.

An official of the New York Central Electric Corp., questioned regarding this revision in rates stated he was not yet able to confirm it positively, but expressed his personal opinion the new rate would soon be put in force. "It has been the consistent policy," this official stated, "of the New York Central Electric to steadily reduce rates. This has been true throughout a period of time when prices of other commodities have generally ruled higher."

Hi-Lights and Shadows of the Week's News

With NRA practically outlawed by the unanimous decision of the Supreme Court Monday, President Roosevelt and his advisers were in a close huddle to decide what to do about it. Some rumors held that the President might make a radio address to business, others foreshadowed new legislation to make certain phases of New Deal binding.

Nine-year-old George Wyerhauser, son of the wealthy timber man of Tacoma, Wash., was snatched by kidnapers last Friday as he came from school. The racketeers have threatened the lad with death unless a ransom of $200,000 is paid. Police and government officials are giving the family a chance to deal with the outlaws in an effort to spare the child's life, thought to be in great danger. It is believed "big-shot" gangsters have pulled this job.

"Thank God For The Supreme Court"—Sen. King, Democrat

AN EDITORIAL

At last NRA has come before the highest tribunal in the land, and at last the Supreme Court has ruled this Act is unconstitutional. To bring this decision beyond a shadow of doubt, or rebuke the decision was unanimous. The gist of the opinion may be summed up in the idea that Congress had no right to delegate to the President and others the powers of making a code of "fair competition" without defining or limiting the power.

This decision of the Supreme Court has been anticipated for many months by nearly every person who has carefully studied the Constitution, with their minds uninfluenced by partisan views, or ungrounded hopes. It was feared by men high in the administration circles, as evidenced by withdrawal of the clear-cut lumber code case from prosecution before the high court. That the Government carried the Schechter case up instead, showed that NRA officials wished to confuse the issue with a case in which the defendants had actually engaged in certain questionable practices; hence might not be backed by public sympathy. But the nine wise men in the Supreme Court were ruled by judgment, and their decision will stand in later history along with such famous verdicts as the "Dred Scott" case. The main point is, the Constitution stands.

The next question which presents itself is, whether the Administration will take the decision philosophically, or will attempt to rush new questionable legislation through Congress to try to hold the despotic powers delegated to the President and the code administrators. The action of Congress during the next few weeks will determine if we will have the opportunity to proceed with healthy strides towards business recovery, or be further plagued with experimental nostrums.

Many sound Democrats rejoiced with sound Republicans at the Supreme Court decision. Senator Borah said: "The Constitution has been saved". Senator King, Dem. of Utah said: "Thank God for the Supreme Court". Others echoed their words or spoke similar sentences, because they know the Constitution is the one bulwark of rights and liberties, and to flaunt those rights in whatever cause is to destroy American Liberty.

If the Administration accepts this defeat with bowed head and the humility such a rebuke should give it, then may we expect to move forward with strong steps to sound business recovery. The NRA has placed great handicaps both upon capital and labor and instead of increasing employment has actually thrown thousands out of work. Destruction of NRA will throw out a great bureaucracy which, through codes with senseless provisions has sucked the lifeblood from many a small business.

The wisdom of the Supreme Court was the only possible force which could save the American people from uncontrolled experiments of ill-advised New Dealers, who have been rushing us toward the destruction of our Democratic form of government. The ruling was not one of Democrat against Republican; it was a case of sense triumphing over nonsense. As the wise Democratic Senator said: "Thank God for the Supreme Court."

JANE ADDAMS—TRAIL BLAZER

With the death of Jane Addams we have seen pass from our midst one of the world's greatest exponents of humanitarianism. A life filled to overflowing with the milk of human kindness and dedicated to the true social objective of bringing permanent betterment to the lives around her. Of Jane Addams it may truly be said; "She lived for others".

A review of her full life is impossible in this limited space. Her outstanding monument—Hull-House—will remain a living force to perpetuate Jane Addams' aims long after her time. Her efforts for world peace stood out amidst the horrors of a war mad world. Jane Addams started in life content to travel a lowly way providing, only, it furnished the means of helping others—yet who can measure the real fullness of the life she lived?

Those in whom the spark of ambition burns strongly through this life are offered three highways in which they may travel to the goal of Heart's Desire. Each one of those roads leads definitely upwards, but the ends that can be obtained lie as far apart as the poles of the earth.

One road is the highway to great wealth. It can only be conquered by endless toil and the sacrifice of time, energy and many of the finer things of life. Relentless pursuit of this road often becomes an obsession with those who follow it and many a man in reaching the goal is so steeped with the lust for more that he advances upon the broken bodies of his friends. The highest point this road can reach, is possession of more riches than anyone can possibly use. And in the end this money must be left behind.

The second road leads to worldly glory. In order to follow it systematically requires a devotion to purpose that brooks no interference. Its tortuous climb is almost invariably a devious trail of political paving—curried favors, trades, collusions, payments of one kind or another to smooth each carefully chosen step. This climb to worldly glory is a deep-dyed political game along rules usually laid down by makers whose only purpose is to seek the goal, by fair means or foul—just to win. And once at the final eminence of this road what has been attained? A hollow, purposeless thing after all—Worldy Glory.

The last road is a low road leading through marshy, unattractive lands. Because it offers comparatively little that most people value dearly, the travel of those intentionally taking it is light, and many passing out of sight quickly along the two popular roads soon forget this highway exists at all. This is the Highway of Service. It is a long, "narrow, hard way", and few attain a goal along it which brings them any public recognition. But most of those taking this road do not seem to care, pursuing the Highway of Service, not for any particular set goal in the distance, but for clearly defined ends near at hand.

The traveler may be a volunteer settlement worker buried in the grime of a huge city; or an unknown teacher thinking little of her pay in the mountain districts of Tennessee, as she considers how best to bring the light of greater understanding to some underprivileged children. It may be a doctor slaving day and night to alleviate suffering among people from whom he can never expect pay. It may be a consecrated preacher, or an agricultural missionary combating the superstitions of centuries to enable natives in India to live a fuller life off their soil.

The rewards in money or fame at the end of the Highway of Service, are little sought after. But the true rewards are victories concerning which little is written or sung. Yet they are the highest rewards a human being can attain—the rewards of unselfish satisfaction. And they are rewards that can be won by the rich as well as the poor. Can anyone measure the value to Julius Rosenwald of seeing with his own eyes the benefit done to the colored people of the south by his schools? Can anyone for a moment imagine the rewards that came to Jane Addams through her lifetime of unselfish work for others?

Jane Addams followed a narrow road through unpromising fields, but she followed that road with the dictates of her soul and as it led her to the very heights of joy it brought her to fame as well. The road she followed is the Highway of Service, and as she trod it she stopped long enough at every turn to blaze out a wider, more easily followed trail.

The life of Jane Addams will not stop with the personal contacts she made through life; it will not stop with the immortal influence of Hull-House. For into the trail which Jane Addams widened there is now beginning to step a new army of workers dedicating their lives to a goal which is not wealth, nor fame, but holds a God-given promise. They too, tread the Highway of Service.

THE BONUS VETO

Believers in sound currency and fundamental property rights, have breathed a sigh of relief to know the Senate finally sustained President Roosevelt's veto of the bonus bill. For this piece of legislation contained elements of national danger far exceeding the sum of approximately two billion dollars.

Since the rise to prominence of men like Senator Thomas, Huey Long, Patman and Father Coughlin, millions of people have blindly followed their theories into believing the cure for all our ills may lie in abundance of money. They think that printing a lot of paper currency and casting it into circulation by one means or another, would be a good way to get money into everyone's hands. They have picked out the bonus issue as a kite to tie their string to, not because most of them are so greatly interested in the veterans themselves, rather because the veterans being organized groups offer a likely field for securing popular favor. The inflationists in attempting to gain their ends of a debased currency through the bonus, may be likened to the most despicable old politician who knows he cannot secure votes for himself so espouses the cause of a popular candidate, hoping to elect this man and then exercise great powers through his protege.

There was noting new in the arguments Mr. Roosevelt advanced when vetoing this bill. Other presidents plagued with the same issue have uttered most of them before, although none has previously been faced with the dangers of a printing press bonus payment. This looked so easy, so harmless to many followers of the Detroit priest it seemed to them, a pity not to settle the question in a simple way. But the very simplicity of the treatment contained the greatest element of danger. Next to getting something for oneself for nothing, a great appeal is to see one's friends get something for nothing.

If the thing had appeared on the surface to cost everyone just what it actually would, then the clamor for this bill would have not been so great and more than 300 congressmen would not have voted like a pack of frightened sheep. For instance if the bonus bill had provided that payment must be provided by the imposition of a direct poll tax assessed to every man, woman and child in the country, Congress never would have passed the bill in the first place. For few people would have written letters to Congressmen demanding they vote for a measure to pay for which John Citizen would be forced to reach into his pocket and dig up twenty to one hundred dollars, dependant upon the size of his family.

Yet in effect that is exactly what would have happened to most people. They would not have realized it instantly, like drawing a twenty-spot out of the old wallet, but actually the inflationary effect in the course of a few weeks would have forced every person with a dollar to spend help pay that experiment in "watered" money. For inflation must always be paid for with higher prices. Dilute any currency with paper money to a noticeable extent, and that currency simply buys less of everything to make up for the thinning.

It is not the amount of money, but the rate at which it is spent which creates prosperity. Enough inflationary steps have already been instituted by this Administration, without resorting to the surely fatal one of printing press currency.

Vetoing the measure may have incurred the enmity of some veterans, but those who think things through would never have asked this bill in the first place. The Patman Bill did not originate in the American Legion, but was sponsored by the VFW.

Vetoing the Patman Bill has momentarily diverted the danger of radical inflation, but the country must be on the alert to thwart every new attempt at this destructive group which seeks to ruin us through the printing press.

PASSAMAQUODDY DAM

In spite of the fact army engineers, a special PWA board, and other surveyors have turned thumbs down on the idea of harnessing the 20-foot tides of the Bay of Fundy at Passamaquoddy, 10 million dollars are to be spent out of the first one of the five billions President Roosevelt has at his disposal. So we see a fine example of mortgaging the future generation to pay a debt for harnessing a "will-o'-the-wisp".

Why is the U. S. to spend ten million dollars building a dam for the alleged purpose of harnessing the tides to create more electrical power than can be possibly utilized up at the tip of the state of Maine—power much more expensive, if it works at all, than what could be generated with coal? Simply a matter of politics. When Maine was about to vote last fall President Roosevelt expressed renewed interest in Passamaquoddy and sent Secretary Ickes to visit the scene. The Democrats openly boasted money for this illusory project would be forthcoming—if the state went Democratic. The voters rose to this bait, so the taxpayers of another generation can pay, and pay, and pay to redeem this Democratic campaign promise.

Perhaps this is not an example of buying votes at so many dollars a ballot, but in effect it works out very much the same. Giving an administration huge sums of money to deal out over the length and breadth of the country, as the leaders of one party may dictate, is the most invulnerable way known to keep that administration in power. No president in the entire history of the country ever had a fraction of the national campaign fund which has been handed to Mr. Roosevelt. This ten millions turned over to the Passamaquoddy dream is proof enough the five billion will be spent—at least some of it—for building political fences.

A Snare or a Delusion

By WALTER LIPPMANN

NOT only is the Wagner bill the kind of measure that no politician likes to oppose, but it is a measure so framed that few politicians feel they have to oppose it. It is advertised as seeking "to promote equality of bargaining power between employers and employees" and "to diminish the causes of labor disputes." It denounces "unfair labor practices." Under this bill these excellent purposes can be approved enthusiastically without incurring the risks of attempting to make them good in practice. For the Wagner bill is so devised that organized labor, having obtained magnificent promises from Congress, must then go to the courts and cash those promises if it can.

In effect the bill says to labor: "Go to the courts and see what you can get. You have our blessing. But please excuse us from undertaking the unpleasant job of defining concretely the rights and duties of capital and labor. Although we are the legislative body, we prefer not to legislate; we invite you to litigate, and if you do not obtain from the courts all that we seem to promise you, why blame the courts and not the Congress of the United States.

* * *

Thus, the primary question of what employers and what employees are covered by the bill is left entirely to the courts. At the very moment when the Senate has manifested a clear desire to reduce the scope of N. R. A. as a whole to some recognizable field of interstate commerce, the Senate has plumped by an overwhelming vote for the Wagner bill in which the Federal government is given jurisdiction over anything "tending to lead to a labor dispute that might burden or affect commerce."

If legislative language can be made vaguer than that, it would be interesting to know how it could be done. If Congress can be less precise than to say that the Federal government shall act when something tends to a situation that might produce an undefined result, it is hard to imagine it. Senator Wagner, who was once a judge, assures us that "while the pending bill of course does not intend to go beyond the constitutional power of Congress, as that power may be marked out by the courts, it seeks the full limit of that power to prevent these unfair labor practices." This is, of course, an admission that the Senator is proposing to legislate at large and then let labor and capital litigate in detail. It is an admission that his bill is not a clear definition of legislative policy but a speculation on the future temper of the courts. This is not responsible statesmanship. Nor is it as frank as it might be in its dealings with organized labor. Nor is it wise. For even if the Senator sincerely believes that the courts will fulfill his promises, he might have said to himself, in the words of St. Paul, that "all things are lawful unto me but all things are not expedient."

* * *

The most inexpedient part of the bill is Section 8 (5). This makes it "an unfair labor practice" for an employer "to refuse to bargain collectively with the representatives of his employees." This section writes into the law an interpretation by the National Labor Board of Section 7-A of the National Industrial Recovery Act. It means that the board in Washintgon and ultimately the courts must determine whether employers scattered all over the country have in each specific case been willing "to bargain in good faith" with their employees for the purpose of reaching fixed agreements.

This is a legal monstrosity. For while it is perfectly possible for the government to protect the workers' right to organize, by what administrative or judicial method can it enforce an employer's duty to bargain in good faith? How does one compel men to bargain in good faith. This act does not merely protect an old right—the right to organize. It creates a new duty—the duty to bargain in good faith. There is no more hope of enforcing a duty to bargain in good faith than of enforcing a duty to think the authors of this bill are a herd of pink elephants.

* * *

In fact, as Dean Spencer of the University of Chicago has pointed out, the Labor Board's interpretation, now embodied in the Wagner Bill, which makes it the positive duty of the employer to reach an agreement with his workers, is "unliteral compulsory arbitration." The Board has not actually said that an employer may not say "no" when he is bargaining but it has said that he must eventually reach an agreement and, if he does not, that he may be punished. Thus he must bargain and agree whereas the union can bargain without being guilty of an offense if it does not agree. In practice this would mean that the employer would always have to grant some part of any set of demands made upon him.

Whether the courts will sustain one-sided compulsion of this sort is doubtful. But it is certain that if they do that if labor can legally force the employer into agreements, the time will come when labor also will be subjected to compulsion.

This thing will probably break down administratively or judicially. If it does not, then it is but a first step in the logical development of general compulsory arbitration under which the employer loses his right to hire and fire and labor loses its right to strike. If the Wagner Bill were not so impracticable, it would, therefore, be one of the most reactionary measures of our times. If it were not unworkable, it would be dangerous. If it were not a delusion, it would be a snare.

Future of N. R. A. Not Bright

By MARK SULLIVAN

WITH final introduction of the House plan for the extension of N. R. A., the future status of the blue eagle becomes, within certain limits, clear. Apparently that future is not much. Almost, Mr. Frank Kent's unregretting valedictory seems justified, that very soon "The cemetery lilies can be placed openly upon the withered bosom of this busted experiment." This seems likely regardless of what the Supreme Court may do in the N. R. A. key cases now pending before it. It is Congress, apparently that is going to kill this bird.

The N. R. A. statute expires June 16. What N. R. A. will be after that date depends on the terms in which Congress extends it. That Congress will greatly clip the blue eagle's wings seems certain.

For understanding, it is best to begin with the Senate's action, already taken. The Senate's resolution says:

"No . . . code shall be applicable to any persons whose business is wholly intrastate." That is, the Senate resolution exempts all business that is done wholly in a state.

The House resolution, introduced this week, varies the wording. It says, "No code . . . shall be established for any trade, industry, or subdivision thereof, which is not subject to the Federal power to regulate interstate commerce . . . small or local enterprises which, because of limited volume of production or area of distribution or otherwise, do not substantially affect such commerce, shall be exempted from the application of any code."

This House resolution, it will be observed, while it exempts intrastate business, is not so straightforward as the Senate resolution. The reason for this difference is that the Senate resolution was written by Senators who genuinely wish to exempt all intrastate business. The Senate resolution says in simple words exactly what it means. The House resolution was written it is safe to assume, by some New Deal lawyers who would like to save as much of N. R. A. as they can.

If a great amount of business, operating wholly within states, is made immune, it is not going to be practical to keep N. R. A. for the remainder of business which operates across state lines. There is justification for the try of Mr. Donald Richberg and partisans of N. R. A. to the effect that the exempting of all intrastate business would be fatal.

Just how much of business is "intrastate" and how much "interstate" is in part a matter of definitions by the courts. The passage in the Constitution reads: "Congress shall have power to regulate commerce . . . among the several states."

What "commerce among the states" is, as distinguished from business within one state, has been the subject of legal decisions since the Constitution was written. A case involving this question and dealing with N. R. A. is now before the Supreme Court. Without commenting on that case, it can be said that a much larger proportion of business is "intrastate," and therefore not under the control of Congress, than the public commonly realizes. The courts have usually made a distinction, roughly, between "commerce" which is movement of goods in transportation, and on the other hand "business" which is manufacturing, buying and selling, and the like.

In the case now before the Supreme Court, the lower court held that killing and selling chickens in New York was "intrastate" and therefore not subject to Congress or N. R. A., even though the chickens had been bought in other states and brought in across state lines.

In Florida last January, N. R. A. undertook to prosecute a lumber manufacturer whose product was sold to railroads and thereby immediately went across state lines into interstate commerce. Even under those circumstances, Federal Judge Alexander Akerman held that "it has been decided . . . many times that manufacturing is not commerce within the purview of the interstate commerce clause of the Constitution." Consequently Judge Akerman held that in this case Congress had "no power to regulate wages of employees, hours of service or prices."

But this allusion to court definitions of "intrastate" business may confuse the reader. It is irrelevant here. What Congress, certainly the Senate, proposes to do to the blue eagle is independent of court decisions. Even if the Supreme Court, in the case now pending, should sustain the right of Congress and N. R. A. to regulate much of intrastate business—even that would not save the blue eagle. The effect of a court decision favorable to N. R. A. would merely be to give Congress the power to renew N. R. A. as a whole. But Congress is not in a mood to exercise that power. Congress, certainly the Senate, wants to exempt a great area of business from N. R. A.

DAIRY EVENTS FEATURE JUNE FARM BUREAU PROGRAM

The June program of the Steuben County Farm Bureau includes a number of events of special interest to dairy farmers.

Arrangements are now being made for a Jersey Breeders' picnic and field day, the first to be held in the county. H. E. Dennison, representative of the American Jersey Cattle Club has been invited to attend this event, the date and place of which will be announced.

This meeting will be conducted with the assistance of a committee of Jersey breeders, Roy Herrington, Woodhull; Dr. Frank Starr, Corning; A. W. Norris, Kanona; Ray Marvin, Arkport.

An event which is expected to attract a record attendance is a tour to the Buffalo stockyards, the program of which is being arranged with the assistance of the Producers Cooperative Association. The details will be announced next week.

The fourth dairy herd improvement association is expected to be organized in June to accommodate the dairymen who have asked for this service.

The dairy program of the Steuben County Farm Bureau will be the subject of the radio talk to be given by Manager Stempfle from WESG on June 12. Russel Stephens of Jasper will take part in this program, with an offering of songs to guitar accompaniment.

COMMUNICATION

Cameron Mills
May 27, 1935

Editor Addison Advertiser:

The following prices paid milk producers in the Cameron Mills territory for milk testing 3.5 per cent butterfat:

Thurston Cheese Co., $1.45.

Dairymen's League (plus certificates of indebtedness), $1.46½.

Since April 1st, 1935 the plant at Cameron Mills has been buying milk through the Dairymen's League. The patrons of the Cameron Mills plant were told that if they would sign up with the League and the plant be operated as a League plant they would receive a better return for their milk.

The outcome of the whole thing will be that they will receive much less for their milk; for the month of April they would have received $1.70½ for 3.5 % milk had it been operated as an independent plant. This means a loss of seventeeen cents per cwt., and the loss will be as great, if not greater, for May.

Many Changes in Auto Regulations Are Approved By Governor Lehman

Deputy Commissioner Advises Local Officials of New Legislation—Violation of Section 15 with Respect to Adequate Brakes Now a Misdemeanor.

The following information regarding changes in automobile regulations enacted by the last Legislature and approved by Governor Lehman has been sent to local police officials and issuing offices throughout the state.

* * *

Commissioner Harnett has directed me to advise you of the fact that Governor Lehman has signed the following bills which are effective on the date indicated:

Chapter 67 merely changes the numeral designation of sub-division 28 of Section 2 dealing with traffic infractions to subdivision 29 of Section 2. This law becomes effective on July 1, 1935.

Chapter 68 effective March 4, 1935, amends Section 17 by causing the switching of windshield stickers issued to show coverage for an omnibus to be a misdemeanor.

Chapter 69 effective March 4th, amends Section 17 to provide that the solvency and responsibility of insurance companies shall be approved by the Superintendent of Insurance and that the policy or surety bond shall be approved as to form by the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles.

Chapter 81 effective July 1, 1935, amends subdivision 1 of Section 70 to provide that a violation of the provisions of Section 15 with respect to adequate brakes shall constitute a misdemeanor. It will be recalled that last year this offense was changed from a misdemeanor to a traffic infraction. This amendment places this offense in the misdemeanor class where it probably belongs.

Chapter 161 which becomes effective on July 1, 1935, provides for the licensing of any person, firm, association or corporation engaged in the business of assisting for hire in securing motor vehicle licenses and registrations in cities of over 100,000 population. Applications to be filed must be accompanied by an application fee of $5.00 and in the event that the application is approved, a license fee of $1.00 is required. The license issued shall expire on the 30th day of June following the date of issuance, and such license shall be conspicuously displayed in the place of business of the licensee. In the event of the loss, mutilation or destruction of a license, a duplicate may be issued upon payment of a fee of $1.00. However, a person who is licensed to conduct a drivers' school does not require a license under this new chapter. Violations of this chapter constitute a misdemeanor.

Chapter 207 effective March 25, 1935, merely deletes any reference to badges in Section 13.

Chapter 221 which becomes effective on September 1, 1935, permits the Commissioner to suspend a learner's permit under the Financial Responsibility Law.

Chapter 385 effective September 1, 1935, amends subdivision 1 of Section 11 by providing that an application for registration shall be on a blank prepared under the direction of the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles and makes it optional with the Commissioner whether he shall require the owner of a motor vehicle to state his age on an application for registration. Subdivision 1 of Section 41 is amended in the same manner.

Chapter 425 effective April 23, 1935, prohibits the operation of a tractor of any weight or an auto truck weighing 1800 pounds or more, unladen, within a distance of 100 feet of another tractor or an auto truck weighing 1800 or more unladen, except for the purpose of overtaking and passing such other vehicle.

Chapter 436 effective April 23, permits the use of a gong or siren whistle on a vehicle operated by a chief or assistant chief of a fire department. This is in addition to those vehicles on which such equipment is already permitted in accordance with subdivision 18 of Section 81.

Chapter 466 effective April 24th, amends subdivision 17 of Section 15 to provide that trucks with an unladen weight of over 4,000 pounds shall carry emergency lighting equipment. Formerly the law provided that emergency lighting equipment should be carried by trucks having a manufacturer's rated carrying capacity of over 4,000 pounds.

Chapter 467 effective April 24th, amends subdivision 15 of Section 81 by prohibiting the operation of a motor vehicle other than a commercial vehicle with more than three adult persons over the age of 16 years in the front seat.

Chapter 558 effective July 1, 1935, amends Section 50 by providing that in those counties where the county clerk acts as the agent for the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, the county clerk shall have all employees handling funds collected pursuant to Section 50 give a bond. The premiums for the bonds are made a county charge in all counties where the clerk is paid a salary. In those counties where the clerk is paid by fees, he is required to pay such bond premiums from his own funds.

Chapter 634 which becomes effective July 1, 1935 adds a new section, 84-A, providing that traffic control signals shall regulate traffic only at the intersection where it is located unless otherwise provided by local ordinance or regulation. In such an event an appropriate sign indicating such regulation shall be conspicuously displayed at any intersection so regulated by a traffic control signal.

Chapter 795 effective September 1, 1935, amends Section 94K to provide that if the death of the insured under a motor vehicle liability policy shall occur after the insured has become liable for loss covered by the policy, the policy shall not be deemed terminated by such death with respect to such liability and the insurance company shall be liable thereunder as though death had not occurred.

Chapter 801 effective July 1, 1935, amends Section 84 by providing that the colors in traffic control signals shall be arranged as follows: red on top, green at the bottom and amber, when used, in the center, or if the signals are horizontal, red shall be on the left, green on the right, with amber, when used, in the center.

Very truly yours,
Carroll E. Mealey
Deputy Commissioner

April Milk Prices Show Some Gain

Prices to New York State dairy men for milk delivered in April and used in the so-called surplus classes will be from one and one-half cents a hundred pounds to eleven cents higher than in March and from 39 to 43½ cents higher than in April, 1934, delivered in the basic freight zone, according to Peter G. Ten Eyck, Commissioner of Agriculture and Markets. The price of milk used in Class 1, or fluid, is $2.45 a hundred as in March but 35 cents higher than a year ago.

The various class prices and comparisons are computed by the Division of Milk Control are: Class 2A, (fluid cream) $1.75 in April, $1.75 in March, 1935, and $1.40 in April, 1934; Class 2B (plain condensed milk) $1.75 in April, March and $1.40 in April last year; Class 2C (ice cream in New York City) $1.75 in April, March and $1.40 in April last year; Class 2D (ice cream upstate) $1.38½ compared with $1.27½ in March and 95 cents a year ago; Class 2E (cream cheese) $1.33½ compared with $1.22½ in March and 90 cents last April; Class 3 (evaporated milk) $1.61, compared with $1.53 in March and $1.14½ last April; Class 4A (butter) $1.23½ compared with $1.12½ in March and 80 cents last April; and Class 4B (American Cheese) $1.21½ compared with $1.20 in March and 82 cents last April.

In April, 1934, forty-five per cent of the 450 million pounds of milk produced in New York State was used in Class 1 or for fluid, 23.6 per cent as fluid cream; 11.6 per cent as evaporated milk; 9.2 per cent as butter and but 1.4 per cent as cheese. The amount used in other classes ranged from less than one per cent to nearly three and one-half per cent. The total production for April, 1935 is estimated at 445 million pounds or a reduction of about one per cent.

Since the milk used in the first four classes must be from inspected sources and does not compete on a nation-wide basis, the prices for those classes, according to the orders of the Division of Milk Control, are established by the Commissioner after a public hearing. Prices established in the remaining five classes depend upon the wholesale prices of the manufactured products and are based largely upon the average monthly wholesale prices of butter at New York City and cheese at Plymouth, Wisconsin, and at Cuba, New York

Republican State Chairman Continues Swing Around State

Republican State Chairman, Melvin C. Eaton is scheduled to resume his tour of the state on June 17, with Hudson Valley counties his objective.

Encouraged by the enthusiasm engendered by his brief visits to Onondaga, Monroe, Erie, Orleans and Niagara Counties, and assurances given him by the militant spirit of Republicanism sweeping the state, Mr. Eaton is anxious to contact party leaders in Greene, Putnam, Ulster, Sullivan, Schoharie, Dutchess, Rensselaer and Albany Counties.

In addition, Mr. Eaton is scheduled to address a meeting of the Women's Republican Club of Ithaca on June 6, and to be the principal speaker at a meeting of the Women's Republican Club of Binghamton the following day.

"Disciple of Harmony"

Chairman Eaton lived up to his sobriquet, "Disciple of Harmony" during his sweep through the counties in the southern tier. In addition, in a number of statements made to newspapermen in Syracuse, Rochester and Buffalo, he displayed a capacity for launching vitriolic attacks upon the New Deal and the Democratic administration of the state. In a satirical statement in Rochester, he struck at the Roosevelt administration by citing some facetious statistics which someone had sent to him. They follow:

"Population of the United States	124,000,000
"Eligible for the Townsend Pension	50,000,000
Balance	74,000,000
"Prohibited from working under Child Labor Act, and including those working for the Government	60,000,000
Balance	14,000,000
"Unemployed, Roosevelt figures	13,999,998
"People who will eventually be left to produce the nation's goods	2

While Rollin' Over the Highways

During Chairman Eaton's recent trip upstate, the talk turned to the world war. Mr. Eaton recalled that his brother, Warren E. Eaton, who was killed in a glider accident in Florida last December, had served with the 103rd Pursuit Squadron during the war and had sixty-nine hours in the air over the front lines. He had won, it was revealed, many Allied and United States decorations. Warren Eaton's sailplane glider, with which the late ace made many records, has been given to the Smithsonian Institute by his widow, the Chairman made known. Additional discussion of the war revealed that:

Chairman Eaton had served overseas with the A. E. F., assigned to field hospitals, and later to the United States Hospital Center at Langres; that Mrs. Robert Low Bacon, Vice Chairman, had done a great deal of war work; that Henry Root Stern, Treasurer of the Republican State Committee, had been wounded in action while serving as a captain of the 311th infantry, and had been gassed while serving with the 61st Infantry, 5th Division, Regular Army, and that Chase Mellen, Jr., Chairman of the Public Relations Committee, had lost a leg in the Argonne while serving with the 77th Division as a 1st Lieutenant, and held five decorations. All four male executives, it became known, are members of the American Legion.

Many Repudidate Macy Committee

Immediately following publication by former State Chairman W. Kingsland Macy of the personnel of the Macy-Ziegler organization known as "The Progressive Republican State Committee" both Chairman Eaton and various county chairmen were kept busy with letters, telephone calls and telegrams from persons named denying they were part of the organization, and declaring their names were used without consent. At least two public officials in up-state counties, named by Mr. Macy as "his representatives", declared they proposed to publcly repudiate their being linked with this insurgent, irresponsible group."

Chase Mellen, Jr., Republican leader of New York County, lost no time in assailing the Macy-Ziegler statement as a "publicity blast", demanding that the former State Chairman display his party regularity by joining with Chairman Eaton and the party in the fight to recapture the Assembly this fall.

G. O. P. Active in Dutchess County

* * *

Republicans in Dutchess County, under the leadership of Senator Frederic H. Bontecou, are unusually active, having arranged a number of meetngs between now and June 12. Chief among these is the assemblage scheduled for next Monday in Staatsburg High School, Hyde Park, to be featured by an address from Ogden Mills, former Secretary of the Treasury. On June 10, the Republican Club of Pleasant Valley will meet, and the Women's Republican Club of Beacon will hold a card party in Holland Hotel. On June 12, Assemblyman Emerson D. Fite of Vassar, is to lead a panel discussion on "County Reform", the function being held in Vassar Alumnae House.

Sprague Gains Strength in Nassau

J. Russell Sprague, Supervisor-at-large in Nassau County, has gained much additional strength as Republican leader of the county due to the action of Governor Lehman in vetoing several of the Nassau ripper bills, one of which would have legislated him out of office. Public reaction is strongly resentful against the Democratic majority in the Legislature for passing the bills, and this resentment will stand the G. O. P. in good stead in the Nassau election this fall. Again, Mr. Sprague's fight against the bill placed him even more firmly in the saddle as county leader.

Twelve-Note Chimes Are Made From Auto Rims for Belfry of Addison Baptist Church

Results of Novel Experiment Have Been Commended by Many Who Have Heard Musical Instrument—Idea Conceived by W. W. Rolles of Binghamton—Applied Locally by the Rev. K. E. Arnold.

A set of chimes, made up in the most novel and ingenious manner and at a minimum of expense, from discarded automobile rims, has lately been installed in the belfry of the First Baptist Church of Addison. Many expressions commending the musical qualities of the chimes have been voiced in recent weeks.

The idea was first suggested to the Rev. Kenneth E. Arnold, pastor of the church, by his father-in-law, W. W. Rolles, a garage proprietor in Binghamton, last August. Mr. Rolles, at the time, had in mind an instrument for home use, the thought tracing back to a brake-drum which he had removed from an abandoned Chevrolet. He had discovered that by holding this drum suspended from the center and hitting the flange with a hammer that the ring was very musical. He at once concluded that other drums could be collected of different tonal qualities which could be used to create a musical instrument.

The apparent disadvantage was that when struck by a hammer the musical sound was too loud to be pleasing in the interior of a building. The possibility of adapting the idea to use in the open tower of the Baptist Church then occurred to the Rev. Mr. Arnold. Although the idea had been in mind for sometime it was not found possible to create the set until just before Easter of this year.

In the task of assembling and constructing, the Rev. Mr. Arnold was assisted by Franklin Butler and Charles Champlain. Brake drums were donated by the Rolles Garage in Binghamton, and by the Wall Street Garage and the Lee Williams Garage in Addison, also by the Addison repair shop of Frank Hess. The chimes were constructed by chosing drums with twelve different tonal qualities from among the more than fifty different drums inspected. These were mounted in inverted form on blocks of wood ranging from six to twelve inches in diameter.

The chimes are played by striking on the outer edge with a steel hammer. An electric switch has been connected with the pulpit in the church, thus making it possible to signal the belfry during services. The undertaking is not regarded as complete at the present time as it is hoped to add more notes to the set at some future date. These chimes were played for the first time by the Rev. Arnold on Easter Sunday. Since then they have been played on different occasions by Charles Champlain.

Rev. and Mrs Withey Home From Ten-Day Trip to Points in Wisconsin

Addison Clergyman is Honored by Degree of Bachelor of Divinity, Awarded by Faculty at Nashotah Seminary — Mrs. Withey Attended Convention of Nurses Group — Noshotah Graduates Now Scattered.

The Rev. and Mrs. Thomas A. Withey returned Saturday afternoon from a two-weeks trip to Wisconsin and other points in the Mid-West. They were accompanied on the trip home by Mrs. Withey's mother, Mrs. Julius Francke, of Kenosha, who will be a guest at their home for the ensuing fortnight.

Father Withey attended the alumni banquet and class reunion at Nashotah Theological Seminary Wednesday, May 15. The following morning he attended a special service offered for the repose of deceased alumni in the seminary church. At the main commencement exercises later in the day, he received the degree of Bachelor of Divinity from the seminary.

A visit was then paid to the church where Father Whitey first started his ministry, St. Paul's Church, Alderle, Wis. The Addison clergyman later celebrated holy communion in the church of St. John Chrysostum, Delafield. At Kenosha, Mrs. Withey attended the national convention of St. Barnabas Guild, an organization of nurses of the Anglican faith. In the evening the Guild members and guests attended a banquet in St. Matthews Guild Hall, the principal speaker being the Rt. Rev. Benjamin Frank Price Ivins, D. D., Bishop of Milwaukee. The Rev. Father Gibson, in charge of the Cathedral Shelter work in Chicago, and the Rev. Charles Webb, national chaplain of the Guild, were other speakers.

During the few remaining days, the Rev. and Mrs. Withey were visiting friends and relatives in various Wisconsin communities. Business conditions in Kenosha, site of the Nash automobile plant, are reported as having been uncertain for sometime past, but a pickup is anticipated following the introduction of the new model which Nash will shortly introduce. Farmers are reported as being in an optimistic mood and are enjoying greatly improved conditions over the drouth period of a year ago.

Classmates of Father Withey, who completed their courses at the seminary with him, are now scattered to various points in many states. Among them are the Rev. Father Sheppard, now at Christ Church, Corning; the Rev. Theodore Mark Carpenter, now at Juneau, Alaska; the Rev. Edwin Batchelder, at Houghton, Mich.; the Rev. Charles Parker at Bridgeport, Conn.; the Rev. Donald C. Means at Portage, Wis.; and the Rev. William Kenworthy, who has remained at Nashotah as professor of New Testament.

WHAT WOULD YOU DO

IN A CASE LIKE THIS?

A man comes to your door. You answer his knock. You don't know him, and he can't identify himself as a representative of one of the established companies you've come to know and trust.

Question: Would you open the door?

Answer: No. Not if you're like most of the women who keep house and buy things for themselves and their families in this community.

Reason: Experience has taught them that the greatest danger in admitting strangers is the danger of being sold something without a reputation.

Result: Women who know that a value is as much a matter of "known reputation" as it is a matter of dollars and cents, buy through the ads in the ADDISON ADVERTISER and WOODHULL SENTINEL. They know they get double protection when they do.

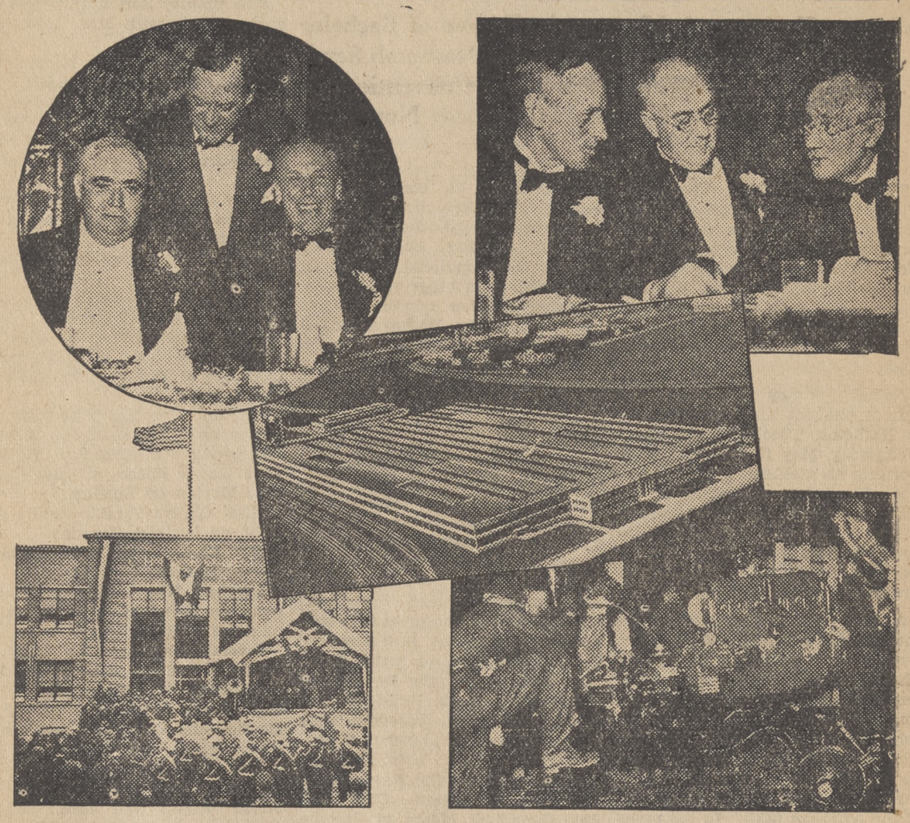
New Chevrolet Assembly Plant Opens in Baltimore



Governmental, state and civic officials joined with the principal executives of General Motors Corporation in the formal opening of the new 80,000-car-a-year Chevrolet assembly plant in Baltimore recently. The new plant (center) was dedicated with impressive ceremonies (lower left), and Chevrolet, Fisher Body and General Motors officials were guests of the Baltimore Association of Commerce at a formal banquet in the evening. W. E. Holler, vice-president and general sales manager of Chevrolet, is shown (standing) with Maryland's Governor, H. W. Nice, and Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president of General Motors (upper left). M. E. Coyle, president and general manager of Chevrolet, is pictured in the upper right photo with Senator Millard Tydings (left) and Mayor H. W. Jackson, of Baltimore (right). Chevrolet Engineers and Stylists Perfect Balanced Car Which Meets Full Significance of Term

Definitions of Mechanical Expert, Designer and Chassis Engineer Have Been Fulfilled in Entirety, Says Statement of Company Official —"Balanced Car is One That Fulfills Its Purpose With the Highest Degree of Efficiency and Satisfaction to Motorist", He Says.

What is a balanced car?

Different answers are given by different authorities.

The mechanical expert says that a balanced car is one in which every rotating part is so accurately made that, even at high speeds, it does not tend to vibrate.

The expert stylist defines the balanced car as one in which all component parts and elements are so skillfully combined as to create the effect of unity of the whole.

The chassis engineer, however, holds that the balanced car is one in which all units are so carefuly designed, each in relation to the other, that the car fulfills its purpose with the highest possible degree of efficiency and satisfaction to the motorist.

Actually, according to James M. Crawford, chief engineer of the Chevrolet Motor Company, which presents its cars as truly balanced automobiles, all three definitions must be met before balance can be achieved.

"Some of the costliest and most delicate machines in our plants," Mr. Crawford said recently at a Detroit gathering of Chevrolet field men, "are those precision devices that are designed for balancing parts such as the crankshaft, or the clutch assembly, or the flywheel. But even if every rotating part of the car were in absolute perfect balance, the car might not be a 'balanced automobile' — a term in which the word 'balanced' is used in a different sense.

"This other kind of balance is to be obtained only through the exercise of judgment and skill before the car or any part of it is built. It is the result of painstaking effort around the draughting board, and the cooperation of engineers, body designers, stylists and others whose judgment is reflected in the product.

As an example of this second kind of balance, consider acceleration ability and economy. Most motorists want both these qualities; otherwise our task would be easy. We could build cars of still greater efficiency (as judged by miles per gallon) by sacrificing speed and acceleration and high-gear hill-climbing ability; so, too, we could build cars of increased performance powers, but these would bring us decreased economy. Actually, in designing a car, we must balance these two opposing factors to give the motoring public both economy and performance in the ratio that the public wants.

"Fortunately, most decisions necessary to achieve a balanced car are not in the 'problem' class, but are made on the basis of certain knowledge of requirements. For example, a car must possess the proper ballance between weight and power. Our Blue Flame engine possesses a maximum horsepower of 80, and its design is such that it develops its maximum torque (or pulling power) at low engine speeds. A chassis too light would not stand up; a chassis too heavy would be wasteful and, of course, would affect performance. So there again we must effect a balance.

"Practically every element of the car is subject to this balancing. Brakes must achieve a balance with the weight and speed of the car, springs must be in balance with the load, gear ratios must effect a balance between power and load, tire sizes must balance with car weight, steering gear ratios must balance the resistance of the tires on the road.

"A balanced car, in brief, is one that fulfills its purpose with the highest degree of efficiency and satisfaction to the motorist. In addition, it must possess visual balance—it must look its part. All its units must combine to make the entire car, through the proper balancing of running gear, radiator, fenders, hood, sheet metal and the various elements of the body, appear as a single unit rather than as separate elements fastened to each other."

Knights Turn Back Painted Post Behind Flynn's One-Hit Pitching

Indians Helpless Before Slants of Addison Ace Hurler Winnie Pitches Fine Game for Post — Hewson's Ball Team Plays Heads-Up Baseball to Climb Into Tie With C. F. A. Nine.

Pitching almost invincible ball "Lefty" Flynn held the Painted Post Indians to a single unearned run Friday afternoon, making it possible for the Knights to win 4 to 1 and go into a tie with C. F. A. for the county league lead. The game was a pitchers' duel between Winnie of the Indians and Flynn, the latter allowing only one lone single and deserving a shut-out. Winnie was nearly as stingy, three hits being all the Knights could garner off his curves but the Addison boys were able to bunch their hits with stolen bases and Post errors for the quartet of runs.

Outside of the first and sixth innings the Knights could do practically nothing with Winnie's offerings. The first two Addison runs came through no fault of the Indian pitcher. Beers struck out to open the Addison half in the first inning. Hallett got a life on an error at short and stole second. Robbins singled to short left field, Hallet being held to second, but pilfering the sack a moment later on a doubful piece of coaching strategy, Robbins going to second on the play. Domenick drove a hard grounder to the Indian third baseman, who threw low to first, the ball rolling to the screen as Hallett and Robbins raced across the plate. Gardner ended the inning by striking out.

In the sixth Beers was safe on Bills' error and stole second. Robbins flied out to left field but Mathews came through with a line drive to center field good for two bases which sent Beers across the plate. Domenick walked. Gardner sent a grounder down to second which put Mathews across the plate, the latter being out at first. Hickey ended the rally at two runs by striking out, but it was enough to win the game.

The Post run was of the flukiest variety. Bills walked to open the fourth stanza. He stole second and for the first time this year Robbins threw the ball over Mathews head, Hallet failing to back up second the sphere rolled to center field as Bills raced to third. Smith struck out, but Winnie lifted a long fly to Gardner, Bills beating the ball to the plate. Williams then struck out. Bills was the last as well as the first Indian to get as far as second base. In the seventh the Post Pitcher made first base on Hickey's error after Flynn had tossed out Smith, but a fast double play ended the game when Williams rapped to Hallett, who tossed to Mathews, the latter whirling to nail Williams at first.

The feature play of the game was a stop by Bills. The tow-headed Indian went after a drive off Hickey's bat which looked like a sure hit, scooped the ball up in his mitt hand directly back of second base and threw the "Babe" out at first. It was a fine play in any kind of a baseball game, and most unusual for a high school league. The entire game was a snappy affair which only took an hour and twenty minutes to play.

Mohawks Ambushed By Freeman Nine In Little Six Opener, 12 to 3

George Hopper Pitches No-Hit Ball for Keed Hibbard's Men Until Seventh Inning When Support Faulters — Jim Tobin, Crashes Out Two Safeties for Mohawks—Merle Dailey, Former Woodhull Star Boxman, on Slab for Wildcats.

Manager "Keed" Hibbard's Addison Mohawks lost a heartbreaker to the Freeman Wildcats last Sunday in the opening engagement for both teams. The contest was staged on the Freeman diamond.

The Mohawks played fine ball until the seventh, not a Freeman runner being allowed as far as second base up to that time. Then Hugh Lindsley missed a hard-hit grounder which allowed two runs to creep over the pan. The Wildcats then continued their ravaging ways, pushing 7 more counters over in the eighth and winding up with three additional for their measure in the ninth. George Hopper pitched no-hit, no-run ball until things began to go awry in the seventh.

The "Keed" and his charges will invade Lindley next Sunday to take on Manager Hovey and his Lindley Steamrollers. Hib is also negotiating with the Woodhull Cardinals for an exhibition game on the Addison High School diamond Memorial Day.

Hits Go To Waste as Jasper Bows to Austinburg 8-7 Sun.

Jasper, May 26— Old man hard luck, coupled with a jinx left over from the 1934 season, started the Jasper Aces off in the cellar at Austinburg yesterday. Although they outhit the Pensylvanians 14-8, the Aces went down to 8-7 defeat. The game was a repetition of the 1934 opening game when the Aces also lost to Austinburg 10-8. The breaks of the game went in the direction of Austinburg. The Aces drove out numerous liners, usually good for two or more bases, and the Austinburg infielders could get them without moving from their tracks. Untimely errors by the Jasper team also helped Austinburg on to victory.

Red Abbott started for the local team and went the entire route, chalking up his first victory of the year. The slowball artist was hard hit and in difficulty many times but always pulled through. Jasper started Harold Stuart, a rookie recruit from the high school, but pulled him in favor of Ty Cobb, who finished the game in fine style. Stuart was nicked for five hits and three runs in the first three innings. Cobb issued but three hits in six innings but poor fielding and walks cost him the game. Cobb struck out eight men in six innings, Stuart three in three and Abbott six in nine.

Each team scored one in the first, Austinburg added one in the second, and they emerged from the third with the score tied three all. Jasper pushed one over in the fourth but Austinburg came back strong to add four in their half of the same inning. Jasper brought another in during the seventh and drove in two more in the ninth to knot the score. Austinburg squeezed in the winning run in the last half of the ninth.

With this defeat to work on, the Aces plan a hot reception for Freeman, when that team invades the local diamond on June 2. It is expected that Beacom will draw the mound assignment, with Moore in the role of relief pitcher. Stuart, Cobb and Sanford will also be present if they are needed. The Aces have in store a fine portsider in the form of Carl Davis and are but waiting for him to complete a rigorous practice schedule before using him in a game.

Jasper High Takes Hectic Game From Almond By Score of 8-7

Jasper High School took a hectic exhibition game from Almond High on the home diamond Wednesday, May 22, 8-7,w hen R. Swan blasted a triple to deep left field to bring in the winning runs. The game was a thriller throughout, with the outcome in doubt at every moment of the game. R. Swan, who has been out of the line-up for two weeks because of illness, entered the game in the fifth inning and proceeded to rifle out two triples in as many times at bat to score three runs and put the game on ice. His first drive, in the fifth, put the final skids under Whitford, Almond's starting pitcher. Whitford, in trouble from the start, was sliding rapidly when Swan lifted his first wallop. Whitford was immediately taken out and Moshier put in. Moshier did but little better and Swan's second triple in the sixth, with two aboard, left him on the losing side of the scoring column.

Emerson started off with a walk, stole second and advanced to third on Castinello's sacrifice. Whitford hit to shortstop, who returned the ball to the plate. Emerson was hooked in a hot box and tagged out at home. The ball was rapidly returned to second and Whitford was likewise caught in a box. With the whole Jasper team around him, he was run down and tagged. The local team scored on an error and a double play that failed in the first.

Almond knotted the score in the second when Thomas walked and singles by Cady and Sharett brought him in. Walrath, on the mound for Jasper, had the inning to himself when he caught Lanterbaum's fly and struck out Crooks and Stevens. Four men up resulted in three down with no score for the local team in their half of the second.

Jasper forged ahead in the third inning when singles by Willover and Waight and sacrifices by McMindes and Lewis resulted in one run.

Almond made two runs in the fourth on a single and three errors, but Jasper tied with hits by A. Swan, Walrath and Willover.

In the fifth inning Whitford singled, Crooks walked, Benton let Lanterbaum's grounder through him and Cady socked out a long single to score three runs. Sharett drove a hot foul through a car window and three girls sitting therein were slightly cut by flying glass. Sharett grounded to Walrath who bobbled it. Walrath struck out Stevens to retire the side. Lewis' double and R. Swan's triple with Walrath's grounder scored 2 runs, and Jasper won in the sixth through a single, an error and R. Swan's triple.

Westfield Shellacks Addison Tri-Cos at Tuscarora Field

Local Defense Cracks Up and Visitors Take Easy Honors—Hopper Fans Three in First Inning—Zerfluh's One Handed Catch Robs Stowell of Extra Base Drive—Wade Finishes Strong.

Eddie Zerfluh and his Westfield diamond troupe stopped off at Tuscarora Field last Sunday afternoon long enough to administer a first class shellacking to the Addison Tri-Cos. The score was 7-0

Smokey Joe Hopper started off in grand style, fanning the first three batters to face him. The visitors were able to push over a run in the next inning, however, and they rapidly added to the total as the game progressed. Poor support in the field was responsible for most of Smokey Joe's troubles. Ralph Wade took up the pitching assignment in the later innings and after an uncertain getaway, he blanked the visitors in the final two stanzas.

Harold Stolwell was robbed of an extra base drive when Zerfluh speared his liner in a spectacular one-hand play. Westfield played errorless ball in the field while the Addison infield endured a decidedly off-day.

Addison plays at Galeton on Memorial Day and at Mansfield on June 2, so it will be two weeks before the teams appear on the home field again.

Forest Fire Extinguished In Farnham Woods

A forest fire of unknown origin on the Farnham Hill south of Addison was held within bounds and finally extinguished Monday evening by Fire Marshall Burdette Beers and his men. The fire broke out in two places during the afternoon and for a time spread rapidly up and down the hill just north of the Tuscarora town line. Mr. Beers wat notified and hurried to the scene, working for some hours to confine the blaze to a limited area.

During the evening the flames lighted the woods with a spectacular line of red up and down the hill, but efficient handling of the situation by the fire fighters extinguished the blaze in spite of the condition of the woods. The extreme dry weather of the past two weeks has brought grave danger of severe forest fires and everyone going into the woods should use great care not to throw lighted matches into dry leaves.

Will Rogers' Latest Also Is His Finest

Famous George Ade Comedy, "The County Chairman" Offers Grade Role

Described in advance accounts from Hollywood as the finest to date of Will Rogers' notable series of American character portraits, the Fox Film production, "The County Chairman", will be seen here at the Avon Theatre beginning with a midnite show Saturday, also Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, continuous show Sunday.

"The County Chairman" is a screen adaptation of the famous play of the same title, by one of America's foremost humorists, George Ade. Opening on Broadway in the year 1902, "The County Chairman" ran there for a year with Maclyn Arbuckle as its star and then toured for the next three seasons. In addition to the celebrity which it brought to Arbuckle, the play created another star of the era—Willis P. Sweatnam, who appeared in the famous role of "Sassafras", colored man-of-all-work. In the screen play, Stepin Fetchit is seen in this notable part.

"The County Chairman", it is said, is a story of smiles and heart tugs, rivaling the hugely successful "Judge Priest" and "David Harum" as a vehicle for Rogers. In the new film he is seen as a wily, lovable county boss, half-diplomat, half-rustic. He wins elections and arranges love matches with equal skill—and no one, not even his rivals, can resist him.

John Blystone has directed the picture, with Edward W. Butcher listed as producer, and the adaptation from George Ade's play has been made by Sam Hellman and Gladys Lehman.

A notable supporting cast includes such players as Evelyn Venable, Kent Taylor, Louise Dresser, Berton Churchill, Mickey Rooney, Frank Melton and Stepin Fetchit.

Once again, it is stated, Will Rogers displays his recently developed flair for singing in this picture. You will recall his musical propensities in "Judge Priest". This time he renders an old-time western rangers' song, accompanying himself on the guitar. Another highlight of "The County Chairman" is one of those famous torchlight processions so much in vogue at the turn of the century. This one is staged by Will and is said to have all the frenzy and thrill of its originals.

You mustn't miss Will Rogers, the inimitable, in "The County Chairman". You'll love him more than ever—and no one can say more than that!

State President Urges Auxiliary To Instill Patriotism and Love of America in Hearts of Young

Mrs. Allen Hathaway is Guest of Steuben County Unit at Banquet in Corning — Auxiliary Units Spent $123,000 for Rehabilitation Work Last Year— Addison Group Attends.

Mrs. B. F. Short, president of Williams-Greengrass Unit, No. 730, American Legion Auxiliary, and a group of other Auxiliary and Legion members, including Miss Leanore Runyan, Mr. and Mrs. George Freeman, Mrs. Mary Tobin, Mrs. William Lewis, Mrs. William J. Kennedy, Dr. and Mrs. Amos G. Stiker, and Mrs. H. E. Auringer attended the reception, banquet and entertainment held at the Baron Steuben Hotel Friday evening in honor of Mrs. Allen Hathaway, state president of the Auxiliary.

All auxiliary units of the county were represented and a large number of Legion men were in attendance from the various posts in the county. Distinguished guests included Mrs. Leila Kernahan of Nunda, vice-president of the state department, Mrs. Frances Erdle of Rochester, chairman of the Seventh District, Mrs. Helen Stewart of Elmira, chairman of the Chemung County unit. Mayor Alfred G. Hood of Corning, the Rev. Carl Grabb of Painted Post, state chaplain of the Legion, and Frank Kluck of Painted Post, Steuben County commander.

Talks on Objectives

Mrs. Hathaway in her address touched on the purposes and objectives of the Auxiliary, membership, child welfare, its national defense work, the support of health camps for undernourished children and the work of the organization known as Fidac designed to bring closer international cooperation, good will and understanding.

The state president urged all Auxiliary members to get behind the coupon campaign, proceeds of which go to support the Child Health camps financed by the organization. In the last year she said $91,000 had been expended for this program of which $86,000 was spent by the individual units and the remainder by the state department. Only $19.50 is needed to keep a child in a camp for three weeks and this is considered the least time in which the undernourished may be benefited. She urged Americanism and national defense.

Auxiliary units spent $123,000 for rehabilitation work last year, Mrs. Hathaway said in talking briefly on the annual poppy sale, the proceeds of which are used for this work. In addition there were 24,000 disabled ex-service men who received Christmas gifts last year as part of the welfare activities of the Auxiliary.

In closing the state president urged that individual members undertake to instill patriotism and the love of America in the hearts of the young. She also urged that efforts be made to impress upon the young generation the fact that membership in the Auxiliary organization is a privilege and something that cannot be purchased. "Eligibility to our noble organization is bought only by sacrifice", she said.

Touching on the problem of communism and the spread of detrimental propaganda in the United States she said that there was never a greater need for unselfishness and the principles which are the roots of the American Legion Auxiliary.
